[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Berlin, Jan. 24.—One British destroyer was sunk and another was observed to be in a sinking condition in the North Sea naval engagement, the admiralty announced. One German torpedo boat was sunk and another in a damaged condition. The others returned with slight damage.

The announcement says:
"In an enterprise undertaken by a portion of our destroyer forces in engagement occurred early on January 23 with British naval forces. One enemy destroyer was sunk. After the encounter in the sea was observed by our aeroplanes to be in a sinking condition."

"One of our torpedo boats in distress, owing to damage sustained, according to news received, arrived at Yamboula. All other boats returned with slight damage."

The official British account of the encounter, which took place on January 23, states that a British destroyer was torpedoed with a loss of forty-seven men and a German destroyer was sunk.

London News Vague.
London, Jan. 24.—Several dispatches from Holland, give stories of the battle between German and British destroyers in the North Sea, but the details, which on some points are contradictory, are mostly and no more derived from hearsay. It seems, however, certain that the main engagement began about two o'clock in the morning and lasted until about seven. It was a fierce and bloody battle, and the severity of the cold can be judged from the fact that eight corpses of the British were found floating in the sea. The German flagships, were so far from the scene that they had to be towed back to port.

Practically all the details of actual damage to the ship referred to the V-1, which is the only one of the British ships which is reported to have been seriously damaged. The correspondents report that seven to ten German vessels were sunk, but there is nothing definite in regard to the number. According to one version, the Germans started from Heligoland with the intention of raiding the British coast, but were driven back toward Flanders, where they were defeated. It is confirmed that Commander Becham on the V-6 is alive, and according to one report, uninjured. A number of survivors of the British vessels have arrived on the east coast.

Renewed Fighting.
Berlin, Jan. 24.—Renewed fighting has broken out on the river Aa in the Russian position on the front. The results of engagements have been favorable to Germans, said the statement.

Admit Russ Retreat.
Petrograd, Jan. 24.—German troops in the Riga region have succeeded, by repeated attacks in strong force, in pressing back Russian lines about a mile and a half between Tirul swamp and the river Aa, east of Kaulmiz, the Russian office announced today.

Claim Russ Victory.
Petrograd, Jan. 24.—A Bulgarian detachment crossing a branch of the Danube, opposite the Russian front, was repulsed by Russian troops and destroyed, the war office announced today. Prisoners to the number of 337 and four machine guns were taken.

Successful Raids.
Paris, Jan. 24.—French troops made several successful raids last night near Chilly, south of the Somme, and in the Woerwa district the war office announced. Bulgarian troops were active in the Salla region, near the eastern end of the front.

Italians Captured.
Berlin, Jan. 24.—An Italian trench with 200 prisoners was captured by the Germans in operations on the Olympia area, Austro-Hungarian headquarters announced.

Aeroplanes Shot Down.
Six German aeroplanes were shot down on the western front, the war office announced.

PROBE PAST LIVES IN SPANELL CASE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 24.—The defense in the trial of Harry J. Spanell, charged with killing Colonel M. C. Butler at San Antonio, last July, continued today. The effort to impeach the character of Colonel Butler and at the same time build up the reputation of the defendant.

John H. Smith of Alpine testified that Spanell's reputation was good, and that he was devoted to his wife and child. The witness said he had heard nothing regarding Butler's attitude toward Spanell, at a dance at San Antonio, according to Butler's attorney prior to the double killing. The cross examination of the witness said that his wife was leaving the home when Spanell said to him: "This is the place for a lady."

NEW YORK HEARING ON LEAK INQUIRY
IS ADJOURNED TODAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
New York, Jan. 24.—The house rules committee, in executive session, today decided to adjourn its New York hearing on the leak investigation for an indefinite period. Members of the committee, who plan to return to Washington this afternoon, will hold a meeting in Washington some time later in the week to decide when they shall resume hearings here.

Announcement of this plan came while the commission still was in session with representatives of the New York Stock Exchange, trying to agree on a request for the submission of specific records to the committee.

When the meeting adjourned most of the committeemen rushed for the Washington train, and Sherman Del Whipple, counsel for the committee, detailed what had taken place in the morning. President Noble of the stock exchange, he said, had agreed to submit to the board of governors of the exchange a supplemental request for "such information regarding market transactions between December 22 and 23, which would make it possible for the committee to resume its inquiry some time next week, possibly on Monday or Tuesday." He was inclined to think it would be Tuesday because personal business prevented the committee members in Washington.

Every indication, Whipple said, was that the exchange members would comply with the supplemental request, but it would be hurriedly reconvened and steps taken to insure the production of the desired record. The board of governors was to act on the request later in the day.

TRADE COUNCIL TO CONVENE TOMORROW

Pittsburgh, Jan. 24.—This city was a magnet drawing business leaders from all over America today. In eight special trains the leaders of American finance, production and industry arrived as fast as Mogul engines could bring them. They will join fifty Pittsburgh men here tomorrow for the fourth annual convention of the National Foreign Trade Council.

Special attention will be given to the convention of the trade and social bonds between North and South America. Plans will be made for the development of foreign trade with South American neighbors on the broadest and most progressive basis. "Greater prosperity through greater foreign trade" will be the dominant motto of what promises to be the most important gathering of big business men in 1917.

The best way to meet new conditions that the country is bound to face after the end of the European war will be the problem of this convention. A score of the most noted economists, financial experts, traffic men, producers and distributors will treat the question from every conceivable angle. Agricultural, mining, lumbering, merchandising, shipping, transportation experts as well as bankers and manufacturers will have a part in the planning for solidification of American interests to meet every possibility eventually.

James A. Farrell, Frank A. Vanderlip and John N. Willys are three of the leaders of the convention. A special train was made up at New Orleans for the progressive business leaders of the reconstructed South. Another was coming from San Francisco. A third was eastward-bound from the rich harvest districts of the Middle West.

Another from Chicago brought a large number of railroad men. Still another from New York brought the Wall Street contingent. The northern Lake states sped eastward their copper and lumber men. Various groups of men will bring together from time to time representatives, respectively, of the banking interests, the agricultural interests.

Whether the war ends on a day's notice or gradually through months or years of tedious negotiations, the delegates are firmly convinced that the conditions will be met without industrial or commercial disaster—or even grave uncertainty or confusion to the country.

MAY CHANGE
NUMBER OF
THE BOARDASSEMBLY HAS MEASURE TO RE-DUCE SIZE OF STATE BOARD OF CONTROL TO THREE.

WILL PROTECT VAN HISE

Senate Promptly Votes Down the Joint Resolution from the Assembly
This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Madison, Jan. 24.—A reduction in the size of the state board of control was proposed in a bill offered today by assemblyman Edward J. Engle. This is apparently an administrative measure. It provides that the size of the board shall be reduced from five to three members. The members shall serve their entire term to the date of the office, shall maintain their residence in Madison and receive an annual salary of $5,000. The regular term of the office shall be six years. If the bill passes, however, the first member's term would expire in February, 1919, the second term 1921 and the third 1923. Members will thereafter be appointed for a six year term.

Assemblyman Poor, Milwaukee, offered a bill providing for civil service commission and plan of civil service in Milwaukee county. Other bills offered were: Carl Hansen—Placing track scales under the supervision of the state weight and measure department. An appropriation of $1,500 is made to equip the department. Also a bill making 10% of the members of a co-operative stock organization constitute a quorum.

Rathel—Defining whey butter and prohibiting sale unless properly labeled. Auto Speed Laws. Schiewitz—Requiring the district attorney of each county to report the list of auto speeds registered to the state. Also that auto lights shall be arranged so that the rays shall not extend three feet above the road.

Melvin—Where first class rated schools are maintained with a ninth and tenth grade department, a provision of $1 a week may be charged for non-residents. Transferring the commission of the Blue book from the industrial commission to the state printing board.

Chapline—Special examiners of insurances to be appointed exempted from civil service law. J. C. Hanson—Providing for the maintenance of road drags. The assembly memorializing the death of Henry Smith, for many years an alderman of Milwaukee. It received a resolution from Assemblyman Hart to pay 2,500 copies of the report of special referee in the forestry case.

Continues Board. The assembly concurred in the Whipple bill to continue a state board of public affairs, and making annual appropriation of $13,000. The vote was 74 to 11. This is the first big bill to go to the governor. Those who voted in opposition were: Connor, Geddes, Ervick, J. E. Johnson, Henry, Miller, O'Brien, Whiteside, Pieper and Rosa. The assembly received an interesting petition from G. L. Glesner of Endeavor, protesting against the legislation to exempt the largest hog raisers from the payment of a license fee. He says that he has shot fifteen hogs, but of only one was he sure that it was a buck before he brought it down. He attempts to ridicule the position of Governor Engle in defending the law.

Hunting Story. "There is Governor Philipp. He goes hunting with the largest buck comes in the woods and tells how he killed it. It seems queer to some people how he always gets the largest one. It is all in the size of a gun you carry. You must have one that will shoot a 20 gold piece, such as Teddy Roosevelt had when in Africa hunting elephants. You sure get 'em then." The assembly adjourned until tomorrow at ten o'clock.

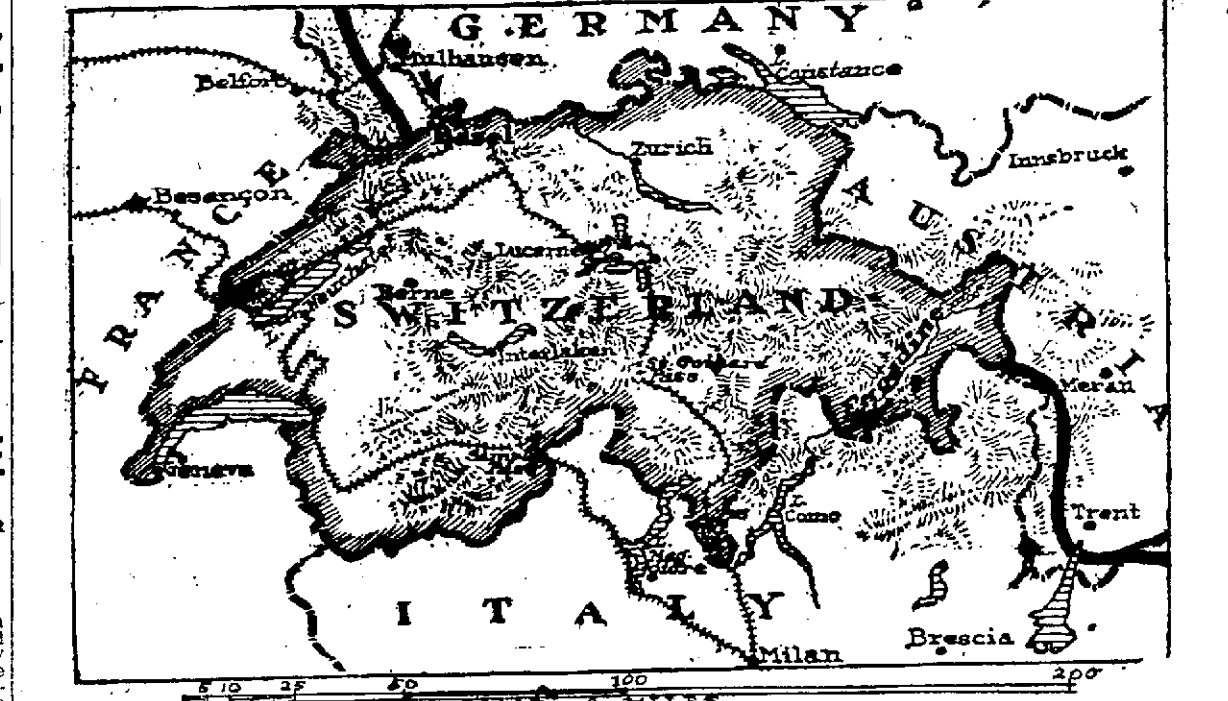

Van Hise Measure. President Van Hise of the university will not be called to testify in the pending case against him in permitting Win. J. Bryan to speak on prohibition and denying the use of the same building to Max Eastman for an address on socialism. When the resolution reached the senate, Senator Timothy Burke asked that it be given immediate consideration. The attempt of Senator Arnold, sponsor of the bill, to have the resolution referred to a committee failed. The senate then killed the resolution by a vote of 27 to 4. Senator Arnold was the only one who spoke for it. He said the people of Wisconsin maintained the university and are interested to know the manner in which the institution is being conducted. A bill was offered by Senator Skogmo for the regulation of power and insurance rates. The reapportionment of State Dairy and Food Commissioner George J. Weigle, and State Railroad Commissioner Harry R. Crumhorn were confirmed by the senate without opposition. The senate adjourned until ten o'clock tomorrow.

Minimum Wage Bill. Assemblyman R. H. Bradley of Superior has offered a minimum wage bill in the legislature which promises to raise one of the most interesting contests which has yet been presented. The 1912 legislature enacted a minimum wage law. This bill gave the state industrial commission power, after investigation, to fix a minimum wage. The state of Oregon has passed a similar law, which was immediately carried into the court.

The Oregon case was argued before the United States supreme court by L. D. Brauer, who has since been chosen by President Wilson as a member of the supreme court. No action was taken upon the Oregon case and finally a re-argument was ordered. The 1912 legislature enacted a minimum wage law. This bill gave the state industrial commission power, after investigation, to fix a minimum wage. The state of Oregon has passed a similar law, which was immediately carried into the court.

Green Bay School Destroyed by Fire. Green Bay, Jan. 24.—Whitney school, the oldest public school in Wisconsin, was destroyed by fire, which broke out at midnight. The loss is about $25,000. The fire is believed to have started in the furnace room.

Switzerland Fears That German Invasion Is At Hand

The mobilization of important units of the Swiss army lends color to the belief that the little republic fears invasion by Germany. Fighting is now very close to the border. Paris reports attack by strong German detachments in the region of Altkirch, while Berlin announces the carrying out of successful enterprises by Wurttemberg troops between the Dollar and the Rhine-Rhone canal, less than twenty miles from the border.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 24.—In the suit of Mrs. Frank Rae Shaver, Green Bay, which provides that before a mother can receive aid under the law, she must have been a resident of the county for at least one year. This bill also provides that it must be shown that the person is without an income or means of support. The amount of aid is also reduced by the terms of the bill. The Burke measure would give $10 instead of $15 per month for the first child and $8 instead of $10 for each additional child. The present law fixes the amount which one family may receive at $40 and the Burke bill reduces this to $30. Senator Burke has also offered a bill providing that the state shall publish a supreme court report the same as it now publishes the Wisconsin statutes. He is now drafting a measure clearing up some of the matters in the forestry litigation. At the time the forestry law was declared unconstitutional, the state was paying for forest lands by bonds. Since then, the state has been obtaining against this land. Senator Burke's bill provides for the redemption of these tax certificates out of the specific fund from which these lands originated.

Sunday Closing Repeal. Assemblyman Szczykowski will offer a bill in the legislature asking for a repeal of the present law applicable to Milwaukee, prohibiting the opening of grocery stores, meat markets and delicatessen stores on Sunday. Assemblyman Schiewitz of Milwaukee is preparing a measure requiring the secretary of state to notify all district attorneys of the owners of automobiles who have been fined for speeding. The district attorney must also furnish the secretary of state weekly the list of auto violators in his county. A violator's record must be sent to the other county if a man changes his residence.

CLAIMS HE ESCAPED FROM STATE PRISON

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Austin, Minn., Jan. 24.—William Coles, arrested here by Sheriff Nichols, charged with having escaped from Waupun prison, Wisconsin, in November, 1914, while serving a life sentence, declared today he escaped from the prison and the man for whose death he was convicted. Coles, according to the sheriff, said that he was convicted on a charge of a crime for which he was sentenced to a term of years. He was found in the ruins, and he was placed under arrest and convicted. He refused to give the name of the man supposed to have died in the burning house or location of the farm.

"BABY IRENE" CASE
IN COURTS AGAIN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Dollie Ledgerwood Matters today in the federal court, sought an appeal from the judgment of Judge Landis, decreeing that "Baby Irene" is the daughter of Margaret Ryan of Canada and not the offspring of Mrs. Matters. The jurisdiction of the United States district court was questioned as the basis of the appeal. As far as the supreme court is concerned, to show the whole atmosphere of the case in this court, said Judge Landis, "and that record shows that there was a conspiracy to foist this baby in the world as Mrs. Matters' baby."

PRESIDENT OCCUPIES

Being going to the capitol Mr. Wilson shook hands at the white house with 100 independent oil producers, and conferred with a committee from the Churches of Christ in America.

NEW APPOINTMENT
AS CHIEF EXAMINER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington, Jan. 24.—Removal of Charles Stark from office as chief national bank examiner and the second federal reserve district, with headquarters at New York, and the appointment in his place of William P. Milburn, assistant secretary of the treasury, was announced today by Comptroller William C. Bullard. Mr. Stark has been absent on leave without pay since November 19, 1916. Charles F. Richmond, chief of the report division of the comptroller's office, has been acting chief examiner since October 15. The reasons for removing Mr. Stark were not made public in the comptroller's statement. The examiner's office paid $15,000 a year. As an assistant secretary of the treasury Mr. Milburn got $5,000. Officers of the treasury department declined to comment upon reports that Mr. Stark had been requested to come to Washington to answer them.

GERMANY HARD HIT
BY POTATO SHORTAGE

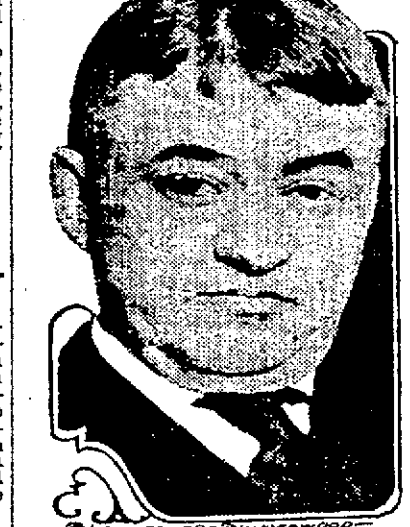

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Berlin, via London, Jan. 24.—The advisory committee of the war food bureau has concluded a two days session devoted to a general review of the food situation. In a detailed statement in regard to conditions throughout the empire, Adolf Batocki, president of the food regulation board, said the chief difficulty lay in the shortage of the potato crop, enhanced by the fact that the grain crops had been better than in 1915, the total nutritive value of the grain and potatoes, together, was less, and economical feeding was necessary to carry the population to the end of the crop year.

MINNESOTA PLANS
A FOOD COST QUIZ

St. Paul, Jan. 24.—A bill aimed at a blow against the high cost of living, was introduced in the Minnesota senate today, which measure would make it a crime for any person to form a partnership or corporation dealing in potatoes to attempt to create monopoly or to attempt to destroy business of a competitor. Discussion of the bill revealed belief among the senators that big dealers had crowded out smaller ones and the high price of potatoes was due partly to monopoly. The bill was also introduced in the house of representatives.

PEACE TALKCUMMINGS RESOLUTION FOR FULL CONSIDERATION ON FLOOR

TODAY.

Senator Stone's Proposal Referring It to Foreign Relations Committee Is Overruled by Presiding Officer.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington, Jan. 24.—Action on Senator Cummins' resolution to provide for exclusive consideration of President Wilson's peace address until all senators expressed their views was deferred today and was sent to the calendar after it had been debated two hours.

Senator Cummins sought to obtain unanimous consent for the resolution to be put over without prejudice and to come up automatically again tomorrow, but Chairman Stone of the foreign relations committee objected. Senator Cummins pointed out that it is possible for him to move to take it up tomorrow or any other day after the senate routine morning business is concluded.

Senator Stone wanted to refer the resolution to the foreign relations committee, but the presiding officer, in final order, it to the calendar. In this situation it will require an affirmative vote of the senate to get the resolution up again.

More Praise From Guardian.
London, Jan. 24.—The Manchester Guardian, in further long editorial on President Wilson's speech, declares that it considers it a state document of the first importance and a careful and deliberate consideration. In regard to the phrase "peace without victory" the Guardian says:

"Has the president himself to be at this moment so far beaten as to be prepared to concede all the other terms, which with no less emphasis declares to be essential if the United States is to guarantee the 'peace without victory'?"

The Guardian surmises that the peace which the president has in mind merely implies a surrender by the central powers of their territorial question and liberation of subject population.

Regarding the freedom of the seas, the Guardian considers that a complete blockade is a question of definition, limitation and adaptation to changed conditions and that there are elements of modern warfare. Before there should not meet and discuss the whole matter with President Wilson or any other representative of neutral nations. It believes that the value of a blockade as a means of diminishing in proportion the size and efficiency of submarine merchantmen increase and the means of long distance submarine warfare. It says that it does not think these factors are reasons for surrendering any valuable rights, it regards them as reasons for a willingness to discuss and settle the question of international maritime warfare, especially including the right to attack and destroy merchant ships as claimed and exercised by the central powers in the present war.

Berlin Papers Retient.
Berlin, via London, Jan. 24.—The newspapers are slow in expressing an opinion on President Wilson's speech. The text of the speech has been received by the afternoon papers from any comment, even the headlines are noncommittal and the most responsive barometer of popular sentiment, seemed to be unaffected. Nevertheless, the speech occupies a large part of the front pages of the press and is regarded as the new feature of the day.

Note Pleases Soldiers.
Paris, Jan. 24.—President Wilson's note to belligerents inviting them to state their views has been discussed from the Excelsior says. At one point near the junction of French and British lines, at a place in the Argentine and in France, according to this newspaper, soldiers decided to send letters to President Wilson, each signed by 30 of the troops. They were asking for an invitation to a truce of peace, and invitation to dream no longer of the chimera of peace until victory is gained."

THOUGHTS TO THINK ABOUT.

It is considered good cheer to take your own life without fear, and your courage will always grow when you refuse to look at woe.

Charity makes you carry to the helpless the very happiness in kind and amount that you yourself give all to possess for yourself—you sanctify by sacrifice.

Your abilities are always latent until you give them latitude; you have within you the faculties which when properly used, will turn defeat into success.

OBITUARY.

Lucius Kennedy.
In the death of Lucius Kennedy, which occurred at his home on the river road in the town of Janesville, last night at about half past eleven, the community has lost a man who has been a resident of the county for nearly sixty years, and one who has been dear to many people, both young and old. Mr. Kennedy was born March 3, 1850 in Scranton, Pa. He came here with his family in 1860, and since that time has lived on a farm in the town of Janesville.
Mr. Kennedy was not only a farmer, but a dealer in raw furs; there are many men, especially the older hunters, who will pleasantly recall their associations with him in the fur business. He was an industrious, energetic man, resourceful, yet kindly and thoroughly human.
In 1875 he was married by the Rev.
Joseph W. Sanderson in Janesville, to Anna Elizabeth Ludwig. Mrs. Kennedy has been dead for some years, but three children survive: Mrs. Lynn T. Smith of Plummer, Minn., Lucius

Charles G. Franklin.
After a brief illness of but ten days, Charles G. Franklin passed away this morning at quarter to nine at the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs.
Nellie Franklin, 826 Hyatt street. Mr.
Franklin had recovered from an attack of pneumonia, but the struggle had been too great and he was unable to rally. In the past three years since he has lived in this city with his daughter-in-law, he has greatly increased his circle of friends in this community.
Mr. Franklin was born March 6, 1833, in Morristown, New York. At the age of ten he moved to Beloit with his parents, and since that time has resided here. He was a member of the church with the exception of a few years spent in Perry, Iowa. He was married in 1850 to Ellen Brand of Clinton.
For most of his life he has been a farmer, and has established a reputation for industry and perseverance wherever he is known. Mr. Franklin was a man of modest desires but of high ideals, known by many as a true friend, and loved by all for his geniality.
He is survived by his wife and by four children: Mrs. Walter Birdall, La Junta, Colo.; Mrs. E. C. Franklin, Proctor, Minn.; Mrs. C. E. Franklin, Chicago, and H. O. Franklin of East Troy, Wis. One son, William G., died in January, 1895.
The funeral announcement will be
made later.

Mrs. Mary Ann Taylor.
Word of the death of Mrs. Mary Ann Stockdale Taylor, which occurred last evening at her home, 56 Ringold street, after a brief illness from pneumonia, has been a great shock to the many friends of this city and of the country nearby who had known and loved Mrs. Taylor. A resident of the county for the past thirty-five years, Mrs. Taylor had drawn about her a circle of admirers who all recognized in her a woman of more than usual ability; capable and unflinching in her efforts, she was possessed of a gentle humor and a sympathetic understanding that easily brought her friends close to her.
Mrs. Taylor, formerly Mary Ann Stockdale, was born in England on March 25, 1840, but came to the United States with her parents when a member of the first wave of the La Grange township, Walworth county, here receiving her early education and growing into young womanhood. In November, 1872, she was married to Joseph G. Taylor. In 1882 they moved to Johnston where they lived until four years ago, when they came to this city.
Mrs. Taylor is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. D. McFarlane of Richmond, and Mrs. R. John Clark of Harmony. Two other daughters—Jessie and Mrs. W. W. Cook, have passed away. An instance of the true devotion and generosity of Mrs. Taylor is seen in the fact that she adopted the three children of Mrs. Cook after their mother's death and since then, as if they were her own, she has cared for them. Mrs. Taylor is also survived by two sisters: Mrs. J. C.
Taylor of Everett, Wash., and Miss Ellen Stockdale of Whitewater, and by one brother, Wallace Stockdale, of St. Paul, Minn., and by thirteen grandchildren.
The funeral announcement will be
made later.

John T. Snyder.
Funeral services for the late John T. Snyder will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at half past one at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Cummings, 1401 Washington street, by the Reverend Clarke W. Cummings and the Reverend Raymond G. Pierson. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery. The services will begin at 1:30 p. m. Mrs. Snyder, Mrs.
G. Snyder, Charles B. Snyder,
Glen G. Snyder, Clifford W. Snyder
and George E. Tatzinger.
Mr. Snyder's death is in itself a tragedy for the family and for all who enjoyed the opportunity of knowing him and of appreciating his true character, and coming so soon after the death of Mrs. Snyder brings to the sympathy of the entire community to those who suffer from this double bereavement.
In addition to the seven children who survive him, Mrs. Snyder also leaves two brothers, James B. William, Part W. and Albert, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Davis.

Charles Smith.
The body of Charles Smith was taken to Johnson's Creek this morning at eight o'clock over the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Funeral services and interment were held at Johnson's Creek.

Mrs. O. E. Newton.
After an illness of several months,
Mrs. O. E. Newton passed away
January 8, 1917, at her home, 137
South Hancock street, Los Angeles, California.
Nellie Dano was born February 19, 1838. Her father, the late Frank Dano, was one of the early settlers of Janesville. Both Mrs. Newton and her husband, who survives her, were residents here for many years.
Interment was at Mount Lawn cemetery, Los Angeles.

Mrs. W. G. Mahany.
The funeral of Mrs. W. G. Mahany of Milwaukee was held this morning at the Oak Hill chapel immediately after the arrival of the 8:30 train from Milwaukee. The Reverend Perry Miller conducted the services. The following served as pallbearers: W. B.
Conrad, J. M. Conrad, T. P. Burns, W.
A. Murray, Philip Doherty and William Taylor.

Mrs. Ann Monahan.
The funeral of Mrs. Ann Monahan was held this morning at ten o'clock from St. Patrick's church. Father Mahoney celebrated high mass and also delivered the sermon. Interment was made in Mount Olive cemetery.

Ewan, James Fanning, Albert Higgins,
John Carney, John Roach and Frank Roach.

CZAREVITCH FOLLOWS PROGRESS OF WAR

The Title "Esquire."

What gives a man the right to be termed "esquire?" The title comes from the French "ecuyer," a "shield bearer," but has, of course, long since lost all military significance. According to usage it was, however, strictly applicable only to the younger sons of the nobility, to officers of the king's household, to counselors of law, justices of the peace, sheriffs, holders of commissions in navy or army, and graduates of the universities, though by courtesy it is given to solicitors, bankers, the landed gentry and gentlemen "of independent means."—New York Morning Telegraph.

War Smothers Hears.

One of the melancholy by-products of war is the diminished valuation of human life to which it leads. We are so satiated with the horrors of the wholesale destruction of men that the slating of a ship with all on board creates a ripple of comment, where, years ago, as when the "Titanic" went down, our minds would have been paralyzed by the anguish our sympathetic imaginations compelled us to share. War that has been the making of man has brought home his minuteness as an individual.

Insect Activity.

The insect world represents an unlimited field of life and activity. The number of insect species is greater by far than of the species of all other living creatures combined. Although more than 300,000 have been described, probably twice that number remain to be examined. Virtually all living animals, as well as most plants, supply food for these innumerable hordes.—

JOHN STRANGE HEADS
FEDERATION OF DRYS

Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—As a means of uniting all the dry forces of the state and bringing to the support of the cause a referendum bill every temperance organization of whatever shade and whatever purpose, and as a means of providing central direction to a campaign in which all the dries can cooperate, the Wisconsin Dry Federation came into existence yesterday afternoon, with John Strange of Oshkosh, as chairman of the executive committee, which will handle the campaign.

Other members of the executive committee are: Arthur J. Egan of Oshkosh, J. J. McDonald of Madison, George W. Smith of Grand Rapids, Mrs. W. A. Lawson of Milwaukee, Dr. W. D. Carrier of Waukegan, P. J. Veal of Stoughton, David C. Van Nostrand of Phillips, Henry Stauder of Appleton, J. H. H. of Milwaukee, and George McKerraw of Pewaukee.

Plans for the campaign were discussed by Grand M. Hudson of Michigan, who secured a majority of 70,000 for prohibition in that state. He advocated an aggressive fight in every city where there is a fighting chance for victory, he advocated a close organization of the practical business men of each community so that they may be brought into the state organization as a unit of thorough-going, up-to-date public-spirited fighting force, and the adoption of the most effective methods. He said that the dries must keep up all the time and that the dry forces must accept every chance to fight if there is a fighting chance to win. He described the practical politics employed in the legislature of Michigan in getting the question submitted, which methods he said could be adapted to the Wisconsin situation.

PROPOSES ADVANCE IN LAWMAKERS' PAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—Two joint resolutions came into the assembly today providing for an increase of the salary of the members of the legislature. Both resolutions were offered by Assemblyman W. L. Smith of Dodge. The first resolution provides for an increase of the salary of members of the legislature from $2,000 to $2,500 and a reduction of the salary of a judge from $3,000 to $2,500. The second resolution is a direct copy of the Illinois constitution relating to salary of members of the legislature. Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services for and during a regular session the sum of $2,500, or such other sum to be paid at such one and in such manner as shall be prescribed by law, and ten cents for every mile he shall travel in going to and returning from the place of business for the legislature on the nature, but the compensation of any member shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office.

The Illinois resolution, which places the minimum that shall be paid at $2,500, the maximum shall be fixed by the legislature, together with the manner of payment, Assemblyman Smith said that both bills are referred to the senate judiciary committee and a committee hearing could thus be held on every phase of the question touching upon compensation of the members of the legislature.

Assemblyman Smith also offered a bill providing that the board of education of any city, town or village may provide meals or lunches for children attending the public schools at such price not exceeding the cost thereof, as the board of education or the district board may determine.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE MOVIELAND

Hazel Dawn has deserted the movies temporarily at least, and is delighting New Yorkers this winter in the season's theatrical success, "The Century Girl." Miss Dawn in the production is the embodiment of peace and the American dove of peace, and as such wears a $5,000 dove's down mantle. A small part of this unique robe is shown in the photograph.

When the robe was being made great difficulty was experienced in bringing the red stripes to a proper shade and the feathers seemed to lose their brilliancy under the glare of the spotlights. Chemists were called into consultation as the costume is one of the principal features of the show, and after considerable experimenting the desired red was obtained, much to the joy of Miss Dawn, who has added another success to her already long list.

KITTY HAS HEART
AS WELL AS A BACK.

Back of the beautiful back of Kitty Gordon is a story. In private life she is as you probably know, the Hon. Mrs. Beresford, wife of the Hon. Henry Beresford and sister-in-law to Lady Decies. After some months of happy married life quarrels arose between the two. Neither the Hon. Henry nor the Hon. Mrs. Henry would "give in" and in what may be described as a decided state of peevishness the Hon. Mrs. Beresford sailed for America and kept her husband snappily informed by cable of her success, much of which can be traced back to back, O, but the Hon. Henry Beresford was an angry young man. He began action for divorce.

Then the Hon. Henry, finding that others might consider his wife desirable, even though he did not himself, experienced a swift change of mind. He did not get a divorce.

After the Hon. Henry having had plenty of leisure time in which to cool off, began to reflect upon the past. He had a lot of bad times, but there had been good ones as well, so both determined to do better a reconciliation was effected.

The Hon. Henry Beresford graduated from Eton in 1887. He entered the army as aid de camp to the Commander, then governor of Madras. During the operations against Matabela he was mentioned in the dispatches for bravery. He traveled last year with his wife when she was on the coast, but went back to England on account of the war. The couple have a little daughter, Vera.

Fred Church, the actor, will leave in a short time for Alaska to make scenes in a five-reel feature. On his return to California, Mr. Church will embark with Lynn Reynolds on a trip to China, where a number of oriental pictures will be made.

William S. Hart's famous daisy-patched vest was made by a one-eyed cowboy, who had learned to use his legs; it went to a gambler, who took it in payment of a debt; Hart's father bought it from the gambler and gave it to his son.

Imagine yourself back in the fifteenth century looking at one of those grim old Spanish fortresses with its turrets stretched across the water edge and in the distance the waves lashed the rocky coast of Spain.
Upon this scene of tragic desolation a woman winds her way toward the tower of the fortress, which is used as the prison wherein prisoners are confined for state offenses; so much by way of description.

JUSTICE MARSHALL SEEKS RE-ELECTION TO BENCH

Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—The nomination papers of Justice R. D. Marshall of the Wisconsin supreme court have been placed in circulation. It now looks as if there would be no opposition to Justice Marshall's re-election. It is understood that some talk of having an opposing candidate was considered in some quarters of the state, but from present indications all efforts have been abandoned. The Marshall papers will be mailed to all sections of the state in a few days. Justice Marshall was appointed to the supreme court by former Governor William H. Upham.

Mrs. H. B. S., of Scranton, Pennsylvania, was in a bad condition. She could scarcely eat, and couldn't digest what she did eat. Her weight dropped to 97 pounds and she was anemic, very nervous and generally run down. She found in HEMO a strengthening and satisfying nourishment that gave her the strength she could not get from ordinary food. In two months she weighed 112 and looked healthy and was healthy and still is gaining. Makes a delicious food drink by simply adding water. Could you ask for more convincing testimony? Mrs. Eliza O. Johnson, 118 North Terrace St., Janesville, says: "I was troubled with a very weak back and continual pains and weakness. I had a miserable itching across my loins and a heavy, burning down pain which came from kidney trouble. Don's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Co., greatly benefited me." OVER EIGHT YEARS LATER, Mrs. Johnson said: "I have the same confidence in Don's Kidney Pills now as when I first recommended them." Price 50c at all dealers. Nan of Music Mountain

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN
Author of "WHISPERING SMITH"

(Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons)

As his eyes continued to sweep the horizon he noted that the sun was down and it was growing dark. He was aware at intervals that he was standing himself like a drunken man. His efforts to guide the horse only bewildered the beast, and the two traveled on maddled curves and doubled back on their track until De Spain decided that his sole chance of reaching any known trail was to let go and give the horse his head. A period of unconsciousness, a blank in De Spain's mind, soon followed. How long he rode in this way, or how far, he never knew. He was roused to consciousness by the unaccounted sound of running water underneath his horse's feet.

It was pitch dark everywhere. The horse after the hard experience of the evening was drinking a welcome draft. De Spain had no conception of where he could be, but the stream told him he had somehow reached the range, though Music Mountain itself had been swathed in the night. A sudden and uncontrollable thirst seized the wounded man. He could hear the water falling over the stones and clumped slowly and painfully out of the saddle to the ground. With the lines in his left hand he crawled toward the water and, lying flat on the ground beside the horse, put his head down to drink. The horse, meantime, satisfied, lifted his head with a gulp, rinsed his mouth, and pulled backward. The lines slipped from De Spain's hand. Alarmed, the weakened man scrambled after them. The horse, startled, shied, and before his rider could get to his feet scampered off in a trot. While De Spain listened in consternation, the escaped horse, filling into an easy stride, galloped away into the night.

Stunned by this new misfortune, and listening gloomily to the retreating hoof-beats, De Spain pondered the situation in which the disaster left him. It was the worst possible blow that could have fallen, but fallen it had, and he turned with such philosophy as he could to complete the drink of water that had probably cost him his life. When he had slaked a seemingly unquenchable craving, he dashed the running water, first with one hand and then the other, over his face. He tried feebly to wash away some of the alkali that had crusted over the wound in the front of his head and was stinging and burning in it. There was now nothing to do but to secrete himself until daylight and wait till help should reach him—it was manifestly impossible for him to seek it.

Meanwhile, the little stream beside him offered first aid. He tried it with his foot and found it slight and shallow, albeit with a rocky bed that made wading in his condition difficult. But he felt so much better he was able to attempt this, and, keeping near to one side of the current, he began to follow it slowly upstream. The ascent was at times precipitous, which pleased him, though it depleted his new strength. It was easy in this way to hide his trail, and the higher and faster the stream took him into the mountains the safer he would be from any Catalabas pursuers. When he had regained a little strength and oriented himself, he could quickly get down into the hills.

Animated by these thoughts, he held his way up-stream, hoping at every step to reach the gorge from which the flow issued. He would have known this by the sound of the falling water, but, weakening soon, he found he must abandon hope of getting up to it. However, by resting and scrambling up the rocks, he kept on longer than he would have believed possible. Encountering at length, as he struggled upward, a ledge and a clump of bushes, he crawled weakly on hands and knees into it, too spent to struggle farther, stretched himself on the flattened boulders and sank into a heavy sleep. He woke in broad daylight. Consciousness returned slowly and he raised himself with pain from his rough couch. His wounds were stiff, and he lay for a long time on his back looking up at the sky. At length he dragged himself to an open space near where he had slept and looked about. He appeared to be near the foot of a mountain quite strange to him, and in rather an exposed place. He clambered a hundred feet above where he had slept before he found a hiding place. It was at the foot of a tiny waterfall where the brook, striking a ledge of granite, had patiently hollowed out a shallow pool. Beside this a great mass of frost-bitten rock had fallen, and one of the boulders lay tilted in such a way as to roof in a sort of cave, the entrance to which was not higher than a man's knee. De Spain crawled into this refuge.

The violent exertion of reaching the height had started the ruptured artery anew, and his first work was cruelly to cleanse the wound and attempt to rebandage it. He was hungry, but for this there was only one alleviation—sleep—and carefully effacing all traces of his presence on the ledge, he crawled into his rock retreat and fell again into a heavy slumber. It was this repose that proved his undoing. He woke to conscious life, it was still day. A consuming thirst assailed him, but he lacked the strength to crawl out of his cave, and, looking toward his bandaged foot, he was shocked at the sight of how it had bled while he slept.

Toward afternoon his restlessness increased, but he clung to his resolve to lie still. By evening he was burning with thirst, and when morning came after a feverish night, with his head on fire and his mouth crusted dry, he concluded rightly that one or both of his wounds had become infected. De Spain understood what it meant. He looked regretfully at the injured foot. Swollen out of shape and angry.

He Looked Regretfully at His Injured Foot.

Looking, the mere appearance would have told him, had the confirmation been needed, that his situation was becoming critical. This did not so much disconcert him as it surprised him and spurred him mentally to the necessity of new measures. He lay a long time thinking. Against the infection he could do little. But the one aid at his hand was abundance of cold water to drink and bathe his wound in, and to this he resolved now to drag himself. To crawl across the space that separated him from the pool required all the strength he could summon. The sun was already well up and its rays shot like spectrum arrows through the spray of the dainty catarrh, which spurted in a jeweled sheet over a rocky ledge twenty feet above and poured noisily down from the broad pool along jagged boulders below.

Crawling, choking with thirst, slowly forward, he reached the water, and, reclining on his side and one elbow, he was about to lean down to drink when he suddenly felt, with some kind of an instinctive shock, that there was no longer alone on the ledge. He had no interest in analyzing the conviction; he did not even question it. Not a sound had reached his ears. Only a moment before he had looked carefully all around. But the field of his vision was closely circumscribed by the walls about him. It was easy for an invader to come on his retreat unawares—at all events, somebody, he was almost sure, stood behind him. The silence meant an enemy. The first thing to expect was a bullet. It would probably be aimed at the back of his head. At least he knew this was the spot to aim for to kill a man instantly and painlessly—yet he shrunk from that anticipated crash. His thoughts, working in flashes of lightning, suggested every possible trick of escape, and as rapidly rejected each. There was nothing for it but to play the part, to take the blow with no more than a quiver when it came. He had once seen a man shot in just that way. Braced to such a determination, De Spain bent slowly downward, and, with eyes staring into the water for a reflection that might afford a glimpse of his enemy, he began to drink. Each mouthful of water was a struggle. The sense of impending death had robbed even the life-giving drafts of their tonic; each instant carried its acute sensation of being the last. At length, his nerves weakened by hunger and exposure, revolted under the strain. Suppose it should be, after all, a fantasy of his fever that pictured so vividly an enemy behind. With an effort that cost more mental torture than he ever had known, he drew back on his elbow from the pool, steadied himself, turned his head to face his executioner, and confronted Nan Morgan.

CHAPTER XI.

Parley.

She stood beside the rock from which the ledge was reached from below, and as if she had just stepped up into sight. Her rifle was so held in both hands that it could be fired from her hip, and at such close quarters with deadly accuracy. As she stood with startled eyes fixed on his haggard face, her slender neck and poised head were very familiar to De Spain. And her expression, while it reflected her horrified alarm, did not conceal her anger and aversion to the sight of him. Unaware of the forbidding spectacle he presented, De Spain, swept by a brainstorm at the appearance of this Morgan—the only one of all the Morgans he had not fancied covering him and waiting to deliver his death warrant—felt a fury sweep over him at the wild thought that she meant to kill him.

Whatever she meant to do, he could no more fire at this girl, even had he a chance—and he realized he was at her mercy—than he could at his sister; and he lay with his eyes bent on hers trying to read her purpose. He read in her face only abhorrence and condemnation, and felt in no way moved to argue her verdict. "I suppose," he said, at length, not trying to disguise his bitter resentment of her presence.

Will pay for the chance to heal Catarrh

After an experience of 25 years, during which time 50 million Americans have used Kondon's Catarrhal Jelly, the manufacturers of this remedy catarrh—that they offer to pay for a chance to prove its benefit to any catarrhal sufferer. They announce that any resident of this community can go to almost any drug store and get a complimentary trial can at the expense of the manufacturers. If the druggist has no gratuitous packages, the person may buy a 25 cent tube with the unqualified understanding that if that first tube does not do that person more than a dollar's worth of good, he or she can get their quarter back from either the druggist or the Kondon Company at Minneapolis. Over 35,000 druggists know Kondon's Catarrhal Jelly is effective, harmless, clean and pleasant to apply—and they know the Kondon people will gladly live up to this offer—"quarter back if not worth a dollar." Address—

KONDON'S CATARRHAL JELLY
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

"You've come to finish me." His shirt stained and tattered for bandages, his hair matted in blood or his forehead, his eyes inflamed and swollen, the birthmark fastened vividly on his cheek, made him a desperate sight. Regarding him steadily, Nan, as bewildered as if she had suddenly come on a great wounded beast of prey still dangerous, made no response to his words. The two stared at each other defiantly and for another moment in silence. "If you are going to kill me," he continued, looking into her eyes without any thought of appeal, "do it quick."

Something in his long, unyielding gaze impelled her to break the spell of it. "What are you doing here," she demanded with anger, curbing her voice to control her excitement as best she could. De Spain, still looking at her, answered only after a pause. "Hiding," he said harshly. "Hiding to kill other men!" Nan's accusation as she clutched her rifle was almost explosive. He regarded her coolly, and with the interval he had had for thinking, his wits were clearing. "Do I look like a man hunting for a fight? Or," he added, since she made no answer, "like a man hunting for a quiet spot to die in?"

"I know you are a murderer." In spite of his weakness he flushed. "No," he exclaimed sharply, "I'm no murderer. If you think it"—he pointed contemptuously to her side—"you have your rifle—use it!" "You came here to hide to kill some body?" she exclaimed. "What do you mean by 'here'?" might better ask why you came here," he retorted. "I don't know where I am. Do I look as if I came here by choice?" He paused. "Listen," he said, quite master of himself, "I'll tell you why I came. I shall never get away alive, anyway—you can have the truth if you want it. I got off my horse in the night to get a drink. He bolted. I couldn't walk. I climbed up here to hide till my wounds heal. Now I've told you the truth. Where am I?" (TO BE CONTINUED.)

WAR BRINGS OUT THRIFT OF THE ITALIAN PEOPLE.

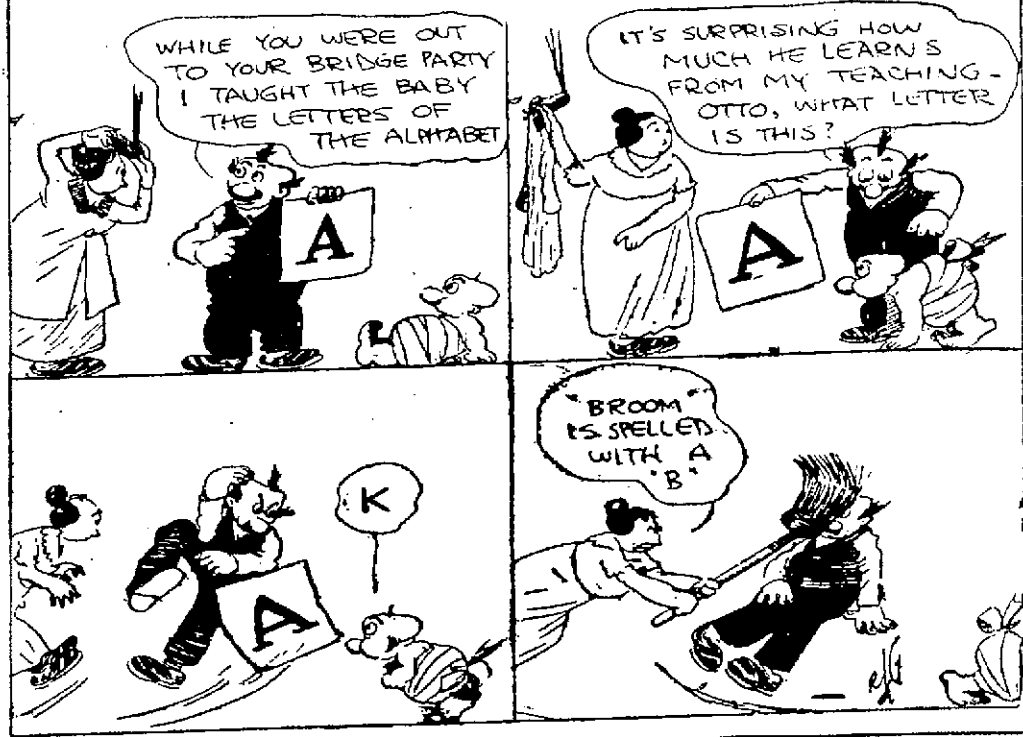

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rome, Italy, Jan. 24.—The budget reports for Italy's two years of war today shows that in the financial year 1915-16 Italy spent $2,125,000,000, of which $652,000,000 were for ordinary and $1,473,000,000 for war expenses. Ordinarily there would have been a surplus of $92,000,000. The war ministry accounted for $1,398,000,000. Needy families of soldiers received $88,000,000 of this amount. The Ministry of Marine spent $75,000,000. Other items directly due to the war included $51,000,000 for issuing and paying interest on three war loans; $4,200,000 for transportation and helping emigrants to repatriate; $1,400,000 to place the Italian Red Sea colony in a state of defence and $1,200,000 for the fishermen of the Adriatic coast. The 1915-16 budget closed with a deficit of $162,500,000. In 1916-17 the army budget was increased by $600,000,000 and the navy by $63,000,000. The payment of interest on war loans amounted to $57,000,000; $4,400,000 went towards repatriated Italians; $1,000,000 towards strengthening further the Red Sea colony; $800,000 to the fishermen; $300,000 to war orphans. The total expense was $1,796,400,000 and the deficit, $852,400,000.

The general economic conditions may be considered almost as good. Probably much less distress has been caused by the war in Italy than in other belligerent countries. Since the war's beginning Italians have worked more, produced more and saved more than ever before. The population's thriftiness and toil are proven by the fact that, while the savings banks had $1,519,000,000 on deposit on June 30, 1914, the present deposits considerably exceed $1,600,000,000. This, in spite of the higher cost of living and the war loans, which has absorbed millions of dollars of small savings. Besides, the remittances from emigrants have almost ceased, as there are now only 35,000 emigrants abroad, compared with 380,000 in 1913. In 1916 imports exceeded exports by $664,400,000.

DANE COUNTY RESOURCES TREBLED IN TEN YEARS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Jan. 23.—Figures prepared by County Treasurer Rinder show that the resources of Dane county have increased approximately 300 per cent during the past ten years. In 1906 the total receipts were $237,902.50 and in 1916 they aggregated $978,359.56. During the same period the number of tax certificates issued by the county treasurer has increased from 147 to 388. Most of the certificates issued were on land in and adjacent to Madison, the owners of the property being delinquent in the payment of their taxes.

THE BOOB FAMILY

Bodily Housekeeping

(By Samuel Hamilton, M. D.)

The subject of drinking water with meals has been misunderstood. In recent years investigation by means of X-rays, the observations of scientists such as Cannon, Grutzner, Pavlov, Fowler, Hawk, prove that an abundance of water taken during digestion is necessary in good bodily housekeeping. Drink plenty of water both between meals and with each meal. Do not drink ice-water at any time. If your kidneys are sick, or you suffer with lumbago or rheumatism at times, pain in the back or back of the neck, take a little Anuric before meals. This can be found at any good drug store. Therefore my advice to young or old is, always drink plenty of pure water. And for long life occasionally take tablets of Anuric three or four times a day.

I can also highly recommend it for coughs, colds or weak lungs and as a good medicine for liver complaint of any kind."—Mrs. L. P. Ekern, 1117 Hewitt Street.

Grand Rapids, Wis.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's medicines and found them very beneficial. I had stomach trouble for about eight years. Had to be very careful what I would eat or I would be down sick. I suffered something terrible about a year ago. I started to take 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two bottles put me in fine condition. I can eat anything and do not feel distressed. I had taken many medicines previous to this and had doctors prescribe for me, but nothing seemed to give me any relief until I started taking this medicine and it gave me great relief."—Mrs. Emil Oestreich, 212 Fourteenth Ave., North.

Dinner Stories

A man who is given to doing "odd jobs" about his house was very proud of a bit of painting he had accomplished. About midnight following the completion of the outside of the house he was awakened by a noise. Creeping to the window, he looked out, and, to his horror, saw a burglar climbing up a ladder to the second-story window. "Look out, there!" yelled the householder to the burglar. "Look out for the paint!"

She was elected to be an usher for the monthly musicale and, being painfully shy, she never could do it—no, never! But the election was positive—there was no drawing out. The evening found her a perfect flutter of pink frib, waiting to receive the early comers. Each of the other young women who were acting in this capacity bore forward an imposing auditor, and Elsie found herself inquiring of a very old and elegant gentleman, in a voice scarcely audible: "Sir, shall I show you to a seat?" "What, what, what?" demanded the austere old fellow, holding his hand to his ear. "Sir," she screamed, in a flustered voice, "shall I show you to a seat?"

While walking along the street an epileptic dropped in a fit and was quickly rushed to the hospital. Upon removing his coat one of the nurses found a piece of paper pinned to the lining, on which was written: "This is to inform the house surgeon that this is just a case of plain Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unable to do my housework. I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find out for themselves how good it is."—Mrs. Carl A. Kieso, 696 North Ave., Aurora, Ill.

The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory, many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

FAVORS CHANGE IN BASEBALL DIAMOND

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
New York, Jan. 24.—While there is little, if any, possibility of a readjustment of the professional baseball diamond as recently suggested by President Percy D. Haughton, of the Boston National League club, the proposed changes as outlined by the Harvard football coach, offer a wide field for speculation as to what would be the result if such alterations were made. At the present time the diamond proper is in reality a square measuring ninety feet to a side.

The bases are considered to be ninety feet apart and the distance from the home plate to the second base is 127 feet 3 3/4 inches. The pitcher's slab is not exactly halfway between the two points but is located six feet six inches from the plate and six feet six inches from second base. Haughton suggests that in order to equalize the offensive and defensive strength of the pitcher and batter it might be found advisable, upon investigation, to move first and third bases five feet nearer the home plate and decrease the width of the place. If this were done it would change the entire aspect of the baseball diamond which would become, roughly, diamond-shaped. As it is, respectively stipulated that second base is not to be moved the result would be that the distance from home plate to either first or third base would be 85 feet and the distance from first to second and from second to third base approximately 95 feet. These figures are based upon the angles of the base lines and do not take into consideration the base line square and considerably shortens the distance to be covered by the base runner who is, of course, safe as soon as he touched the plate. It would shorten the distance that the batter would have to run in order to be safe after a hit and for the runner attempting to score from third. The regular playing positions of the fielders, in all probability would be shifted as the distance from the pitcher to the four players, the first and third basemen would be enabled to play closer to the plate for a batter but have five feet less to run in order to reach first safely. The pitcher would be able to watch runners on first and third more closely based these bases would be a little in front of him instead of at right angles as they are at present.

There has been no change in the shape or measurements of the baseball diamond since 1845, when the distance between first and third bases was made to read that the distance between first and third bases and home plate and second base must be forty-two paces. There has been considerable discussion as to just what "paces" meant but the generally accepted inference is that a "pace" is equivalent to a yard. In order to clear away all doubt the rules were changed in 1855 to read that the diamond must be a square every side of which measured ninety feet.

Decreasing the width of the home plate would naturally give the pitcher less leverage in the manipulation of his curves and shoot. At the present time the plate is seventeen inches wide and if two or three inches were clipped from the white rubber by the batter would have to come nearer "grooving" the ball in order to register a called strike and the batter would have less area to protect while waiting for a ball that suited his idea of what he could hit safely.

Changes in the size and form of the home plate have been more frequent than alterations to the playing diamond. For some years previous to 1890 the plate was a twelve inch square placed at one angle pointed directly at the pitcher and the greatest width was seventeen inches from the points that would be required by first and third bases on the square. In 1890 the square plate was discarded for a five sided plate measuring seventeen inches across the base, six inches on the sides and twelve inches on the two angles that form the point which still faces the pitcher as he delivers the ball.

Drops Montana. Jan. 24.—Announcement of a tentative 1917 football schedule for the University of South Dakota, including a game with the State College, and a severance of athletic relations with the University of Montana, has been made by the athletic board of the university. Because of the heavy expense in playing Montana, it was decided to discontinue athletic relations, the board announced.

In addition to the game with the State College, the athletic board is making preliminary arrangements to play the North Dakota-South Dakota game at Aberdeen and to decide some other big game at Vermillion on "Dacotah Day" instead. Several teams are being considered for this latter game, among them being Missouri, Ames and Iowa.

The Coyote schedule also may contain games with Notre Dame and Michigan. The athletic board is considering the possibility of the Thanksgiving day game which formerly had been reserved for Creighton. Sioux City has offered to stage a contest between Northwestern and the Coyote team and officials are considering acceptance of this game.

ELKS BOWL AT SHEBOYGAN.

Sheboygan, Wis., Jan. 24.—The Wisconsin Elks Bowling association organized a statewide tournament here today. Sheboygan will enter close to fifty teams, Milwaukee Elks will make up thirty-five teams, Racine fifteen, Kenosha fourteen, Green Bay fifteen, Fond du Lac twelve, Oshkosh ten, Watertown, Racine, Ashland, Madison and Menasha are mentioned as the most likely candidates for the next tournament.

Not a Purchaser. Jan. 24.—Robert Lee Hedges, for many years president of the St. Louis Americans, before departing for Honolulu recently, announced that he had withdrawn his offer to buy the St. Louis Nationals. Despite the fact that many syndicates have been formed to buy the Nationals since Schuyler Britton resigned as president, Hedges was the only person to name a definite price. This was declined by Mrs. Britton, president of the club.

Hockey at Minneapolis. Jan. 24.—Minneapolis will be represented this season by a senior hockey team, composed of players from the various city leagues. Nick Kahler, veteran hockey player, organized the seven, signing up 16 experienced players. Kahler expects to make games immediately with the St. Paul, American Soo and Columbus teams. MEANWELL ROUNDS TEAM INTO SHAPE FOR CHICAGO GAME

Victory of Minnesota Over Illinois Brightens Badger Prospects for Conference Title.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—Prospects for another conference title are considerably brighter this week for Dr. Meanwell's basketball team than they were last week. During the past three or four days two victories, one on the part of the Badgers and the other on the part of Minnesota over Illinois, have given the Badgers a good chance of clinching a hold on the banner. The defeat of Illinois by the Gophers, while placing Minnesota at the head of the percentage column, has put Illinois, the most dangerous opponent, out of the race. Minnesota has played all its games on their home floor and they are certain to lose two or three games when they take to the road. Illinois, Chicago and Wisconsin are the teams expected to mar their record.

The Badgers will receive a crucial test on Friday when they meet Chicago at Madison. Some believe that Wisconsin played above themselves against Illinois, so that the game with Pat Page's men from Chicago will prove whether the Badgers have really hit their stride. Dr. Meanwell is working the men hard to have them in shape for the Chicago style of play. He will risk no chances of having a defeat administered to his proteges.

The game will mark the last appearance of Captain Lewis on the Badger team. He will graduate from the university in February, so that this contest will be his last attempt. Lewis, during his three years of playing, has been the leading scorer on the Badger team and has led the conference for two successive years in that department. He has a record of nearly five baskets a game for the twelve conference tilts. This is a record which no man has yet approached. Besides being a consistent scorer he is a good floor man and spends much time during the game in playing defense. In spite of the fact that he is a marked man in all contests he has been able to count at all times. His loss will be greatly felt and especially at this time in the conference race. It is expected that "Bill" Chandler, center last year, and who has been ineligible so far this season, will take his place. No information has been given out by Dr. Meanwell as to what his lineup will be against Chicago. He pulled an unexpected change in the Illinois contest with the result that no one knows whether he will return to the old formation or keep the same lineup. The combination which met Illinois was one which was developed to meet their form of attack. Chicago, on the other hand, has a style which varies greatly from that of the Suckers.

Purdue Relay Team. LaFayette, Ind., Jan. 24.—Purdue University plans to enter a team in the four-mile relay race to be staged at the annual Athletic Carnival and Handicap meet to be held in Chicago Jan. 26 and 27, under the auspices of the Second Regiment Athletic Association. Purdue will enter a team of four men, and the contract sent to him for 1917 calls for $2,000 less than he drew last season.

The prize is given annually by Jacob Gimbel, of Vincennes, Ind., to the Indiana University athlete, who shows the best mental attitude, habits, college spirit, application, sincerity and scholarship.

Michigan in Doubt. Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 24.—The poor success which has marked Michigan's efforts to build up a strong football schedule for 1917, has given added impetus to a movement to consider returning to the Western conference. Debating clubs have discussed the question and the pro-football men, quite generally have been victorious.

Probably the greatest basketball five ever turned out in the state of Indiana is the present quintet representing little Wabash college. The usual crop of salary holdouts will again be in evidence. The latest to announce that he must have more money is a factor in the deal announced the other day in Philadelphia, by which Demaree goes to the Chicago Nationals in exchange for Cletcher Lavender. Demaree lives in Chicago. No money was involved in the swap. Demaree is a former member of the New York Giants, having been purchased by them from Mobile in the fall of 1912. In the winter of 1914-15 Demaree, Stock and Adams went to the Phillies in a deal by which Hans Lobert was sent to New York. Since leaving the Giants and joining the Phillies Demaree has beaten several former teammates with a great degree of regularity, doing this four times in 1915 and five times last year.

Manager Fred Mitchell says he doesn't want a player on his team who hasn't sense enough to take care of himself and that there will be no strict rules of conduct, each player being on his honor. It would seem that the baseball profession was advanced far enough that nothing else is necessary. However, most ball players are young, and youth will occasionally take its fling.

Barney Dresfuss notified the other members of the major leagues schedule committee that his business wouldn't permit him to make the trip to Dover Hall. Maybe he heard that Garry Herrmann would be there and did not fancy the idea of being caught in a game preserve with Garry after all that has happened. Garry might have mistaken him for a deer or something and blazed away.

Some complaint is heard from Omaha at the action of the Columbus club in turning First Baseman Ray Miller over to the Cleveland Naps. The Omaha story is that Cleveland put in a draft for Miller, then canceled it. Then came the Class AA draft period and Columbus put in a draft for $500 less, of course. Columbus got the player—and now turns him over to Cleveland.
